

Market in a Minute

A SUMMARY OF MARKET CONDITIONS FOR MARCH 2024

CONTRACTS

Contract activity in March 2024 was up 0.2% from March 2023 and was up for three price categories. Through the first three months of the year, contract activity is down 3.4%. The average number of days on the market for homes receiving contracts was 20 days in March 2024, down significantly from 29 days last March.

URGENCY INDEX

The Urgency Index, simply the percentage of homes going under contract that were on the market 30 days or less, was up in March compared to last March. During the past 20 years, the Index has been as high as 94.4% (April 2004) and as low as 22.9% (November 2006). In March 2024, the Urgency Index was 87.9%, up from 86.2% in March 2023.

INVENTORY

The number of homes on the market at the end of March (990) was down 21.4% compared to the end of March 2023 and was up for four out of six price categories. The number of new listings coming on the market decreased 14.7% compared to March 2023. The very slight increase in contract activity combined with the decrease in inventory lowering overall supply to 0.6 months from 0.8 months at the end of March 2023. To provide some context, during the "Great Recession" in March 2008, supply was 5.2 months, the average days on market was 96, and there were more than 9,000 homes on the market, 9 times as many as today!

INTEREST RATES

30-year fixed mortgage interest rates at the end of March stood at 6.79%, down slightly from 6.94% at the end of February. Recent economic news makes it very clear that the hoped-for and much-needed rate cuts by the Fed aren't going to happen anytime soon. We believe rates will hover near the 7% mark until at least the third quarter.

AFFORDABILITY

The payment on a no-money-down, 30-year fixed mortgage for a median-priced home is 109% higher than it was a decade ago in March 2014, and the median price is up 60%. The payment is also 15% higher than last March because of higher prices and higher interest rates. The mortgage payment for a median priced home ($4,754) was much higher in March than the median rented price ($2,800).

DIRECTION OF THE MARKET

The real estate market in Northern Virginia is the hottest in the metro DC area. That's great news for sellers and challenging for buyers. On average, homes settling in March sold above their original list price. As noted above, the average days on market for homes going under contract was just 20 days, and the urgency index was 87.9%. That means that buyers are scrambling to make offers on the limited inventory of homes on the market, despite persistently high mortgage interest rates. In fact, Northern Virginia was the only area in metro DC with less inventory than a year ago, and overall supply stands at just 0.6 months. The supply of homes priced between $500,000 and $1,000,000 is just 12 days! We also look at absorption rates, a measure of the percentage of the inventory of available homes going under contract in a month. We consider any rate above 60% to be reflective of an "extreme seller's market." In March, the absorption rate for condos in Northern Virginia was 58.8%; it was 58.5% for detached homes, and an astounding 75.2% for townhomes. Those sky-high absorption rates continue to put upward pressure on home prices – and that continues to make homes considerably less affordable for homebuyers. For homeowners, this is a great time to consider selling if that fits with your plans, and about the only mistake that sellers can make is overpricing. Price it right, and the buyers will come to you. Price is wrong, and buyers are content to wait for the next listing. For buyers, preparation, patience, persistence, and working with a great Realtor® are the keys to success.

Absorption Rate by Property Type

The following tables track absorption rate by property type, comparing the rates in the just-completed month to the rates in the same month of the previous year. The absorption rate is a measure of the health of the market and tracks the percentage of homes that were on the market during the given month and in the given price range that went under contract. [The formula is # Contracts/(# Contracts + # Available).] An example: The absorption rate for detached homes priced $500,000-$749,999 in March 2024 was 77.6%. That compares to a rate of 65.6% in March 2023, and the increase means the market was better in 2024 for that type of home. If the absorption rate was less in 2024 than in 2023, we have put the 2024 rate in red. This month there was improvement for thirteen of seventeen price categories with activity
